The industry leader in identity protection, Pointman Technologies Inc. sells card printing solutions through cutting edge technology.

“Pointman Technologies Inc., a strong contender in the world of card printing machines and software, & is focused on card printing solutions that fit all business sectors, from banking and government, to education and retail,” said GM of the Americas Warren Gray. “We stay one step ahead with our cutting edge technology and a 5-year warranty”, a Pointman Technologies standard other companies have followed.

“We stand behind our corporate philosophy and pride ourselves as an industry leader delivering eco-friendly products to all consumers.” Warren also said. “Our cards are durable, and provide all the necessary chips and biometrics.” Pointman Technologies offers everything from small card printing machines like the Nuvia series that prints with encoded magnetic strips or RFID to industrial kiosk printers like the TPK-4000 that customers can use for essential ticketing at train stations, airports, casinos and other large volume platforms.

When asked about the response to the new movement in student safety, Mr. Gray responded that Pointman Technologies is encouraging all school institutions to incorporate the use of technology infused cards for their students and faculty. “Everyone can increase their knowledge of safety procedures involving ID cards, and in general, by following Pointman Technologies’ social media accounts and reading our blogs which will include new and up-to-date information regarding these hot topics within the security industry.”

Pointman Technologies, Inc., headquartered in Seoul, South Korea, is considered a start-up by industry standards. “We’re setting our goals high and aiming to achieve new benchmarks within the next two years as we continue to grow on a global scale. We’re a business that’s going to stand behind our products for being the best in class when it comes to quality, performance, pricing, and serving the needs of all businesses.”
